puzzle island vr

Extremely buggy, multiplayer is barely working, the puzzles aren't very difficult IMO, and the game hasn't been updated in about a year. It's a cool concept, but it's a very short barebones game with no support or updates happening. Just skip right over this, unless you happen upon it for free somehow.. This game shows a lot of potential! I encourage others to try it out. The playability and physics just take a moment to adjust to, but feel very realistic and responsive. The goal is to arrange the objects available in a particular way to touch a goal sphere. The level with the balls and barrels was the biggest hurdle for me, but otherwise was a nice gradual rise in difficulty. As it progresses, you have to learn to hold the objects still and strategically swing them into positions - or maybe others can figure out better ways to do it! Thank you for making it, and I hope you will continue to develop it further into a full experience.. Can't recommend this game to anybody. The controls are more frustrating than fun. When most of my time is spent trying to fight the controls rather than solve the puzzle there's something wrong with the foundation of the game.. Gameplay (Level 1 - 18 solutions):

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nJK22lbXIs> I didn't expect to play it for two hours straight but that's exactly what happened. It's set on an island which to date has the most realistic graphics I've experienced in VR. I've played 19 of 20 levels and so far it has been mostly hard puzzles. This was one of the first puzzle games I've tried on the Vive and it's now one of my favorite games. As a whole I truly recommend it! PROS - Graphics are very realistic and to me it's the most realistic environment I have experienced in VR. - For the most part the puzzles are hard. - No instructions. This is actually a good thing seeing as it made it more difficult in the beginning. - No mic in multiplayer. I've only been able to try out online multiplayer for 15 minutes or so but I liked the fact that there was no mic. Only being able to express myself with my hands actually made it more fun. Plus, he/she didn't hear when I raged about my failings! CONS - Some puzzles seemed only possible for really tall people OR you'd need a high ceiling and a ladder! Edit: The developer answered and clarified that it is in fact possible to solve all puzzles no matter your own height or the height of your ceiling. - Multiplayer doesn't seem to be an option, couldn't find an option to opt-out. - Multiplayer latency wasn't great. Maybe a better matching system otherwise it gets quite laggy. Improvements - Add more puzzles! There are just 20 levels right now. I've reached level 19 and soon I'll be done. - Possibility to skip levels. I like the fact some levels are hard but it would be nice if it was possible to skip a level if the player has tried it for maybe 30 minutes or so. - View solutions. It would be interesting to see other possible solutions for a level once you've completed it. Either visually in-game or just text instructions. Total playtime: For me it took somewhere around 2 hours to get to level 19.. I would like the ability to manually invite friends.

New Update in the Works : Hello everybody. Version 0.93 released : And a few more bugs got squashed to make your stay at Puzzle Island even more enjoyable: Release notes. How do you like our buoyancy? : Hello everybody The next update is coming very soon. Here's one of the goodies we've added: Boxes now float in the ocean! It's definitely fun to play around with.. Major Update - Version 0.95 released : Dear Puzzlers. Version 0.94 released : With this update we primarily added Oculus Touch support (via SteamVR). Oculus users with a 180 degree setup, can now snap rotate with the joystick. For easier handling on the Oculus, teleportation can also be done by pressing the joystick forward.. Version 0.92 Released : Hello everybody We added some improvements that affect the way some levels can be solved Release notes
